Energiequelle GmbH wins Leading Employer 2022 award

This puts the international company among the top one percent of a total of 160,000 employers.

Kallinchen, 8 February 2022. Energiequelle GmbH has been awarded the Leading Employer 2022 award. This puts the international project developer headquartered in Brandenburg among the top one percent of employers in Germany. More than ten million data from around 160,000 companies were analysed in the evaluation process. The ratings on various internet portals, certifications, benefits offered, image, corporate values, public relations, social media, talent communication and much more were taken into account. Energiequelle scored particularly highly in the area of benefits and employee satisfaction.

Working at Energiequelle

Energiequelle places the emphasis on its open and personal corporate culture in which honest and human interaction, appreciative communication, commitment and informality. In addition, the company offers fair salaries, performance-based bonuses, flexible working hours, a health budget, fresh fruit and various company events for personal exchange. Energiequelle is EMAS-certified, enjoys a good reputation in the industry and advertises vacancies on various platforms with films and posts.

Energiequelle employs around 350 people, and more than 70 are expected to join in 2022. Despite the growth, the company offers new colleagues a warm and organised start. For example, in addition to a welcome box, every employee receives a personal induction plan to give them a good insight into the various departments.

Kristin Herrmann, Head of Human Resources, is proud of the recognition she and her team have received from this award: "It is very important to us to offer our employees the best possible working atmosphere. That is why I am very pleased that the efforts are being honoured and recognised."

Energiequelle is ranked alongside companies such as Meggle, Puma and Zeiss.
